AT WHITE RIVER JUNCTION

Victim Is Expected to Recover and the Alleged Assailant Is Now Under Arrest to Await the Outcome of Injuries.

White River Junction, Aug. 3.—Alex. Riki was arrested yesterday, charged with shooting Alphonse Tisi at the festivities which attended the marriage of Louis Napolitano and Frances Palmarino on Sunday. Tisi is in the hospital at Hanover with a bullet wound in his body, the bullet having passed dangerously near the heart. Riki was arrested Sunday night and was placed in the lockup, pending the arrival of State's Attorney Edward R. Buck, who came yesterday morning to start his investigation.

The wedding festivities were said to be filled with exciting incidents, with liquid refreshments, not water, furnishing the incentive. The fun soon turned to fight, and the danger as well as the revolver is said to have played a part in the affair which followed. The reason for the shooting of Tisi is not known. The victim of the attempted murder is expected to recover.

COMMITTED SUICIDE
WHILE AT SEA

Charles H. Brown of Buffalo, N. Y., Slashed His Throat—Had Previously Tried to Drown Himself.

Antwerp, Aug. 3.—Charles Brown, who is said to have been a hunchback of Buffalo, N. Y., committed suicide by cutting his throat as he was nearing Antwerp yesterday. Mr. Brown, who was suffering from melancholia, the effect of a nervous breakdown, previously had made an unsuccessful attempt to kill himself by jumping into the sea when the Vaterland was at Dover.

He sailed from New York July 21 on board the Vaterland and, throughout the voyage his strange actions were the subject of comment by the saloon passengers, among whom was former Governor of New York Benjamin B. Odell. When the Vaterland put into Dover Mr. Brown suddenly mounted the railing of the ship's stern and, after a struggle, he fell overboard. He was immediately placed in his cabin and thereafter on the voyage to Antwerp was under the care of the ship's doctor. He was left alone for a moment yesterday half an hour before the steamer arrived at Antwerp and, seizing a knife, slashed his throat and died soon afterward. The tragedy caused deep gloom among his fellow passengers.

Had Been in Poor Health.
Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Charles H. Brown was manager of the Safety Deposit Vaults connected with the Marine Bank of Buffalo for about 20 years. About a month ago his mother died. She had been an invalid for years and he had been greatly devoted to her. His own health has been poor for some time and the bank granted him a vacation. He was away from the bank for a month of August and, when he returned, he was found by his mother's nurse. One is Mrs. James Kuno of New York City; the other two are unmarried and live here.

WOMEN SCRAMBLE TO KISS THAW

Slayer of Stanford White Getting Popular with Portion of New York's Female Population—A Nice, Pleasant Scene
to-day When He Entered Court.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 3.—Armed with a 20,000-word question, Jerome appeared this morning in a final effort to send Thaw back to Matteawan. He expects to complete the case to-morrow afternoon. Jerome may call Evelyn today. Attorney Morschauer announced to-day that he would recall Thaw and perhaps a few others. Both attorneys, however, expect the case to end Thursday night. Justice Mills is unlikely to decide until he reviews the evidence.

A mob of women tried to kiss Thaw as he entered the court this morning. While going into the court this morning Thaw shook hands with Henry Harry, who was a juror in the first trial. Harry said: "I hope you free yourself. I am sure you will." Dr. Baker testified this morning that he had told the late Russell P. Thaw that Thaw showed no signs of insanity.

When cross examined by Morschauer Baker admitted that Thaw merely "used bad judgment" in killing White and said that at that time he would not have sent Thaw to an asylum as insane. Morschauer was constantly conferring with Thaw but the latter has stopped interrupting as he did before Justice Mills commented on the habit as an evidence of "exaggerated ego." After Morschauer finished Justice Mills took Baker and asked if he thought that Thaw was insane. Baker said that he was convinced that Thaw was insane and if free would be a menace to the community.

NERO IS FLOATED FROM REEF.

Filled With Compressed Air, Naval Collier Is Towed to Newport.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 3.—Still another triumph for compressed air as a salver of wrecked vessels was recorded last night, when the naval collier Nero was successfully floated from the rocks of Britain's reef. Pumped clear of water and buoyed up by the compressed air, it was an easy matter for the five tugs and the submarine tender Nina to pull the Nero from her impaled position. After being drawn clear of the rocks, the Nero was towed into this harbor. Here she was dropped on a mud flat, to remain until temporary repairs are made so that she can proceed to the New York navy yard.

It was during a dense fog on July 3 that the Nero struck. She was commanded by Capt. John B. Kennedy and was bound from the Bradford naval coaling station to the battleships of the Atlantic fleet at Provincetown.

For three days after the navy attempted to float her. Failing, the John Arbuckle Wrecking company was awarded the contract. Much of the time since then has been occupied in installing the compressed air apparatus and in making the vessel air-tight. Her bottom is pierced by many small holes, but it is believed they can be mended.

An hour before high tide last night the tugs Solferino, McAllister, Brothers, Seabury, Harlan and Pontiac ranged within safe distance of the stranded collier and attached hawsers. A kedgeree anchor was also utilized. The first effort resulted in pulling the Nero onto another electrically operated pier. She was concentrated at the stern and she was drawn off successfully.

TWO YEARS IN STATE PRISON.

Sentence Imposed on Henry P. Garriety, a Boston Wool Producer.

Boston, Aug. 3.—After pleading guilty to a charge of receiving stolen goods, Henry P. Garriety, a local wool broker, was sentenced to two years in state prison by Judge Charles U. Hall in the superior court late yesterday, for having participated in the robbery of a factory valued at $4,000 from the New York, New Haven and Hartford railway company in January, 1908.

The leather, after being mislaid from the car on the New Haven road in which it was being shipped, was traced to St. Louis, where it was found. Garriety and two other men were arrested, and the other two have previously been convicted of stealing the leather and sent to state prison.

Garriety recently pleaded guilty to receiving stolen goods and turned state's evidence in connection with a large robbery of wool from the American Wool company mills at Lawrence, several other men being implicated. Sentence in that case is pending, and Garriety has been in jail at Salem since his plea, having been unable to furnish bonds.

FLAMES SPREADING
OVER BIG TERRITORY

Village of North Falmouth, N. H., Is Nearly Surrounded by Flames and Total Loss Already
Is $90,000.

North Falmouth, Mass., Aug. 3.—The village is now nearly surrounded by forest fires by a change of wind moving directly upon the houses. At 9 o'clock this morning less than a quarter of a mile from the New Haven depot a thousand people were fighting the fire. The loss so far is estimated to be about $90,000, and will be much greater if rain does not fall soon.

The fire started two days ago on Mills Hill, in Bourne. The fire fighters thought they had the flames under control, but the light northeast wind of the morning started the blaze in a hundred different places along the burn line on the south edge near the Falmouth boundary. As soon as it was seen by the Falmouth fire wardens that the flames were beyond control of the Bourne fire fighters, they called all the available men and started into the woods to check the main blaze on the Hatchville road.

Two small forest fires are burning on the middle lower cape, and it is thought by the fire wardens that if a gale should come up the whole cape would be denuded of trees.

The burning area includes sections of the towns and villages of North Falmouth, Monument Beach, Passasset, Catamount, Hatchville, and a part of Bourne. The entire shoulder of Cape Cod is surrounded in dense smoke, which extended in diminishing volume even to Provincetown.

Until rain comes there can be no effectual checking of the fires. For upward of five weeks the Cape has fallen here save for the lightest of dews.

KILLED BY ELECTRICITY.

Arthur Solomon of Leominster, Mass.,
Fell from Tower.

Leominster, Mass., Aug. 3.—Arthur Solomon, 16 years of age, son of Andrew T. Solomon, 42 years old, a harness maker, was electrocuted yesterday afternoon by contact with a high-tension wire of the Connecticut river transmission company in the Newton district. An isolated locality five miles north of here.

Young Solomon and two companions about his age, Harold Phillips and Harold Cavanaugh, were berrying and climbing to one of the skeleton steel 40-foot towers of the company. Solomon dared them to climb it. They refused and tried to dissuade Solomon, but he failed to heed the warning and climbed to the first cross-arm, where the wire runs. He was seen to push his finger toward the wire from which a stream of sparks emitted, and the boy toppled off to the ground limp and practically lifeless, although he breathed faintly for some time afterward.

The accident happened a mile from the nearest house, which was that of John Willard, and considerable time elapsed before he was rescued. When it was two hours before medical aid could be summoned. When it arrived the boy was dead and the body was removed to Willard's, where it was viewed by Assistant Medical Examiner Appleton H. Pierce, who stated that death was due to electric shock.

Although the boy fell 40 feet and struck a steel beam in coming down, no bones were broken. He was one of a family of six children. Mr. Willard states that the company was testing the wires yesterday. They carry 66,000 volts.

The sudden passing of a horse wagon caused the cart horses to run away. They had been standing near the common curb feeding, the driver, Wilfred Pickard, sitting near. The horses dashed on to the walk, tore out a lot of stone work and ran madly to the common, reaching the girl before she could jump aside. Her sister, who sat beside her, escaped.

ADVISED
NOT TO BUYCity Council Receives Opinion
From City Attorney

ON HILL STREET "COMMON"

Mr. Carver Believes It Wouldn't Be Best to Take a Quit-claim Deed—Another
Transaction with City Officials
Causes a Wrangle.

In his report to the city council last evening in regard to the city's purchasing the Gospel village "common" of the Congregational church society, City Attorney J. Ward Carver advised the council not to buy the land unless they could get a warranty deed from the society and have inserted in the deed that the land shall be used as a "common." He further advised them not to take a quit-claim deed. On motion of Alderman Campbell this report was accepted and the report of the property committee on their conference with the church society and the school commissioners, which was laid on the table last week to be read after the city attorney had made his report, was then taken from the table and read. The property committee stated that the church would sell the property for $1,000 and give a quit-claim deed of it and would not sell it otherwise for that money. The committee recommended that the city buy the land. Alderman Alexander, a member of the property committee, stated that the school commissioners wanted a quit-claim deed in preference to a warranty deed, with a proviso in it that the property could not be used other than for a common for the reason that the word "common" might not be broad enough to include the use which they wished to make of the land. The aldermen then went into a lengthy discussion of the merits of warranty and quit-claim deeds and the mayor stated that he considered that a quit-claim deed would not be a legal title to the property. The clerk and some of the aldermen stated that the very reason the church would sell the property for $1,000 with a quit-claim deed and wanted $3,000 with a warranty deed led them to believe that they had something up their sleeve.

Alderman Ewen said that from his talk with the society he did not think the land could be bought any other way than with a quit-claim deed, but he suggested that the property committee be given further time to consult with the society. Alderman Campbell thought that if there was no chance of making any different trade there was no use in carrying the matter any further and he made a motion that the report of the committee recommending that the land be bought with a quit-claim deed be not accepted. By a viva voce vote the motion was lost, 3 to 3. On motion of Alderman Alexander it was then voted to instruct the property committee to consult again with the society and see if it was possible to make any other trade.

The council had another lengthy discussion over a bill of the city engineer for a team which he had hired to carry him back and forth to the Orange brook reservoir. This bill, which amounted to $33.10, was read along with a bunch of warrants and added to this bill was the engineer's expense account for his trip to Boston on city business. Alderman Alexander moved that the warrants be paid, and Alderman Thurston then said that the council would get into trouble if they allowed that bill for team hire as the engineer had hired the team at Ewen & Gow's stable, of which Alderman Ewen was one of the proprietors. The city charter distinctly states, said the alderman, that no city official shall be interested, directly or indirectly, with any trade with the city, and in this case both Alderman Ewen and the engineer were city officials.

"I had a bill turned down from team hire under the very same circumstances," declared the alderman, "when I thought I was acting in good faith and was doing nothing contrary to the charter." He said he had no personal feeling in the matter whatever, but he considered he would be doing wrong to vote to allow the bill.

Alderman Alexander, who is chairman of the water committee, then said that the water committee had instructed the engineer to hire the team, but they had done so after they had been informed through the best way to get the engineer transported to and from the reservoir. He said they had decided that it would not be advisable to purchase a horse and they then asked for bids from the stablemen and they received three bids, which were $12, $16 and $8 per week. Ewen & Gow's bid was $8, and they considered they were acting for the best interests of the city to get the team at the cheapest price.

He said that he had talked with one of the city auditors in regard to the matter and the auditor was of the opinion that the council would get into trouble if they allowed that bill. He said he understood that the engineer saw the city attorney and had been informed there that it would be all right. The bill has already been paid, he said, to Ewen & Gow by the engineer, and as the water committee had instructed him to engage the team he considered that the committee was under obligations to see that the engineer got his money; but he thought it was not right that the committee should have to go into their own pockets and pay it.

Alderman Thurston said that according to the water committee's own statement their case was a good deal stronger than the one in which he was turned down, because they had entered into a contract in engaging the team and in his case he had been dividing the team hire among the stablemen, among whom was B. F. Cutler, who was then an alderman. He said that rather than have the matter go any further he was ready to go into his pocket with the rest of the aldermen and pay the bill, and have it dropped. Alderman Alexander said more.

PULLED BOY
FROM RIVERAfter He Had Fallen 25 Feet
From Top of Bridge

AND HE WAS ONLY SCARED

Perley Young and Others Were Taking
"Dares" and He Put on Too Big a
Burst of Speed When He Lost
Footings.

Perley Young, a ten-year-old boy residing on Brook street, had a narrow escape from serious injury by drowning yesterday afternoon. The boy, in company with several companions of about his own age, was playing on the Berlin street bridge over the Stevens branch. The boys were daring each other to run over the iron side rail of the bridge from one side to the other.

Finally several of the boys performed the feat and it became a matter of speed, each striving to make the run more quickly than the others. The Young boy was making a dash from the Main street side of the bridge and was about two-thirds across when his foot slipped and with a cry he fell into the water 25 feet below.

G. Miani and G. Barzal were just coming onto the bridge as the boy fell and they immediately ran to his assistance. The water where he fell was over his head in depth and he was unable to swim. Miani quickly slid down the bank and attempted to reach the struggling youth from the bank and could not. By "reading out" however, he finally succeeded in getting nearly to him, but was unable to pull him out. Barzal meantime had hailed a passing express wagon and secured a rope. This was dropped to the boy and he was pulled safely out of the water. It was lucky that he did not fall to either side of this deep spot, as he would have struck on projecting stones.

The boy quickly recovered from his fright, after being safely landed on the bridge, and scurried for home.

DROVE HORSE RECKLESSLY.

Louis Brunelle Got Into Court on the Charge of Intoxication—Two Others.

A trio of drunks were arraigned in the city court this morning. Louis Brunelle hired a team at Ewen & Gow's stable yesterday, saying he wanted to go to Plainville. Yesterday afternoon the stable received several telephone messages from the vicinity of Plainfield that the team was being badly used by a drunken man and later the team was reported in the city and being recklessly driven about the streets. Officer Gamble was put on the track and at 7 o'clock caught the team on Main street with Brunelle in the wagon badly intoxicated. The officer took the man to the station and delivered the team at the stable. The horse was nearly ready to drop from exhaustion. In court this morning Brunelle pleaded guilty to a subsequent offense and paid a total of $25.00.

Yesterday afternoon Officer Carla arrested William A. Hurry and Oscar Swensky on River street. Hurry was found asleep beside the road and Oscar was wobbling down the street trying his best to keep between the fences. Hurry pleaded guilty to a third offense and was allowed to sign the pledge for six months, his wife paying the costs of $2.00 for him. Oscar said that this was his second offense within a short time and he was sentenced to the county jail for 30 days and to pay costs of $6.14.

PAY OR NO PAY.

Merchants and Clerks Are at Odds over
Wednesday Half-holiday.

A conference meeting is to be held this evening between the committees from the clerks' union and the merchant association in regard to the question of the merchants paying their clerks full time for the Wednesday afternoon holidays. In the agreement between the union and the merchants this matter was left optional with the merchants. Some of the merchants have been paying their clerks and others have not, and there has been a movement started by several of the merchants to have all the merchants not pay for the half-holiday. In this the clerks maintain that the association is violating its agreement.
